Can you still take my item and repair it/dispose of it/give it to another organization?

The volume of donations that do not meet our criteria takes up significant space in our warehouse. It requires our team to make multiple trips to the transfer station – taking time and critical space away from use for the intended purpose. We are streamlining our process and ensure that our time and space is directed to most effectively serve our clients. While we are not able to accept your item today, we are happy to refer you to another organization that may be able to use it.

A WIDER CIRCLE

Thank you for donating to A Wider Circle. Your donation supports our neighbors in what is often the first step on the journey out of poverty – obtaining basic home essentials. This serves as a friendly reminder about the in-kind donations we are able to accept.

We accept donations that are in dignity condition: free of rips, stains, or excessive wear, and ready to use. Items that have been stored in an attic, basement, storage unit, or garage often develop mold or mildew and cannot be redistributed. Imagine giving the intended donation to a friend or neighbor – if you would be proud to share it with them, then please share it with us.

Families come to us looking for the most basic essentials for their homes: beds, couches, dressers, tables, and chairs. We also provide household items such as kitchenware to prepare and eat meals, linens for beds, towels, and baby items. To ensure we have space and selection of these items, we have key items we cannot accept, as outlined on the previous page.

Why can you not accept larger furniture and certain other items?

There are two main reasons for this. The families we serve:

- live in small apartments with limited room for non-essential furniture.
- must transport their selected items home and do not have room in their vehicle for more than the essential items.

We remain grateful to all who are interested in donating. We are fortunate that many community members are eager and willing to donate items, and never take this support for granted. Thank you for understanding.

With gratitude,

The team at
